Politics Dominates Labor Day Speeches

It was Labor Day, not election day. But it is an election year. And, if September comes, can November be far behind?

Officials and would-be officials seemed to be everywhere during the Labor Day weekend, all applauding the working men and women of America — and indirectly or directly asking for voters' support.

Labor leaders, meanwhile, voiced a number of political comments.

President Richard M. Nixon, apparently pulling steadily to the front in his re-election bid, said in a Labor Day statement in California that the traditional American work ethic is being threatened by advocates of a welfare ethic that could cause the American character to weaken.

"This year, you are not only going to choose the kind of leadership you want, but what kind of people Americans will be — the fundamental difference is between those who believe in the 'good life' under the work ethic and those who seek the 'easy life'."

In his 2,500-word statement, President Nixon cited economic indicators which he said prove the nation "is on the road to the kind of real prosperity that will last."

Senator George McGovern, the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, conferred with state leaders during the weekend at the annual Southern Governors' Conference in South Carolina.

Later, Sen. McGovern charged that public aid rolls have risen from nine million to 15 million in the last four years. He appealed for the votes of "oil workers, steel workers and the millions of other workers — Americans who live on the wages of their work instead of tax loopholes."

Sen. McGovern charged that the Nixon administration has decided to impose a value-added tax. "To take the sting out of it, they're not calling it a national sales tax. They've got a fancy new name, VAT. And you'll go in the vat if that is adopted."

"You pay every loophole. You pay for every martini lunch that businessmen deduct, while you can't even deduct the price of a bologna sandwich," he concluded.

I. W. Abel, United Steelworkers of America president, made a Labor Day talk yesterday on behalf of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor-Conference of Industrial Organizations.

Abel criticized the Nixon administration's handling of the fight against inflation, saying that many of the actions taken have been at the expense of working people.

George Meany, AFL-CIO

president, asked "So what?" when a questioner speculated that Meany was leaning toward Mr. Nixon rather than Mr. McGovern. He repeated his earlier stand of not endorsing or voting for either Presidential nominee.

Meany called Sen. McGovern an "apologist for the Communist world" in defending Russian acts after World War II as necessary "because McGovern thinks the U. S. posed a threat to their cobbers."

The top AFL-CIO officer, quoted McGovern as saying "Communism is all right for people who choose it." Meany added, "Doesn't he know that there is no country in the world that has 'chosen' Communism?"

"I have certain misgivings," Meany said in regard to President Nixon's travel to China and Russia, "but up till now it seems to be working."

Leonard Woodcock, United Auto Workers president, said there is no merit in Meany's appraisal of McGovern, including Meany's statement that the Democratic nominee cast many anti-labor votes in Washington.

U. S. Senator Charles H. Percy, seeking reelection in Illinois, campaigned in Bell, Belleville and said, "I have great confidence that President Nixon, Dr. Henry Kissinger and Secretary of State Rogers are doing everything humanly possible to find a way to bring the Vietnam war to a negotiated end."

Area Office to Spur Economic Development

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie on Thursday announced a state office of business and economic development will be established on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Purpose of the new office, Gov. Ogilvie said here, will be to "maximize and direct the new economic stimulus" from the proposed new St. Louis metropolitan airport, expected to be located at Columbia-Waterloo on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River.

He commented at SIUE: "The new airport will create jobs for the people of this region. The new airport will bring business, industry, commercial and residential development."

"The new airport also will increase land values and provide the foundation for a bright economic future."

The enormous economic benefits it will bring to the area could mean the revitalization of this entire section of Illinois."

The governor said the new office will seek to direct economic development "in such a way as to enhance the opportunities and to respect the values of the people of this region."

He said it will work with business, labor and public groups to achieve economic goals.

Ogilvie said a director for the new office will be named later this fall.

The offices of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority also are located on the SIUE campus.

The plan to open a branch office of the Department of Business and Economic Development at SIUE was assailed Friday by Henry Elmendorf, chairman of the "Missouri-St. Louis" airport authority, the group formed to try to block an Illinois airport.

"Gov. Ogilvie's announcement of a plan to attract business and industry to his Waterloo airport site is a clear indication that he intends to not only 'steal' St. Louis' airport but also to siphon off industry and jobs from St. Louis," Elmendorf charged.

"We should be reminded of what Mr. Ogilvie said in a speech to the Randolph County Young Republicans Sept. 22, 1971."

Elmendorf quoted Ogilvie: "If you don't understand the importance of airports, you should take a look at the way Missourians are fighting us. They know that if we steal their airport, and that is what we're going to do, it is going to mean that on the Illinois side there are going to be all the campus visit. The funds will be used for construction of two classroom-office buildings. Dr. John S. Rendleman, SIUE president, is at left.

$12 Million Released For SIUE Construction

Funds were released by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie Thursday to build two "badly needed classroom-office buildings on the overcrowded Southern Illinois University campus" here.

Gov. Ogilvie made the announcement during a visit to the local university on a three-week tour of communities throughout the state.

The two buildings, expected to cost about $6 million each, will be used by the Business and Education Divisions of SIUE.

They will alleviate overcrowded classroom and laboratory conditions which required the campus to limit enrollment to 12,700.

Gov. Ogilvie commented: "The entire university family at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville — administration, faculty and students — has responded magnificently and made the best of their presently overcrowded situation."

"By carefully budgeting time and scheduling scarce classrooms, they have utilized existing facilities more efficiently than any other institution in Illinois."

"But it is not enough to simply make do. The release of these funds represents one more installment in our continuing commitment to quality higher education, and to meeting the demands for expansion which are more critical here than at any of our universities."

"These buildings will give this university new flexibility in providing a first-class education for the young people of the Illinois metropolitan area."

University officials said classes have been held in hallways and other auxiliary areas to accommodate SIUE students.

The release of funds follows an extensive review of the project by a special task force assigned by the governor to examine design and cost factors in all major state buildings projects.

Eric Jones, head of the review task force, said more than $500,000 had been cut from the cost of each building "without any sacrifice in functional utility."

He commended SIUE members of the task force for "making valuable suggestions and assuring complete cooperation" throughout the review process.

R. D. Hudgens, SIUE vice-president for business affairs, said he expects the buildings to be advertised for bids this fall, and construction to begin before the end of the year.

GC Man, 26, Shot 3 Times on Labor Day

James English, 26, of 2137 Roberts Ave., was seriously wounded when he was shot three times early Monday morning.

English reportedly refused to give Madison County sheriff's deputies information concerning the shooting, but they said he apparently was shot in front of the Palace Tavern in the Cloverleaf Subdivision southeast of Madison.

Railroad workers in the area of the tavern reported hearing shots there at 12:30 a.m. Monday. A .32-caliber pistol was found near the front steps of the tavern, sheriff's deputies said.

English called for an ambulance to take him to a home on Dewey Avenue in St. Elizabeth Hospital. He had been shot twice in the back and once in the left side of the head. All shots were fired from behind him, deputies said.

He was examined at the hospital here and transferred to St. Elizabeth Hospital, St. Louis, where he was admitted in serious condition.

Deputies said they confirmed reports that English had been at the tavern earlier. They said cinders on his clothing were the same as cinders near the tavern. Several suspects are being questioned in connection with the case.

scene, arrested Dunnivant and took him to the Madison City Jail where he was held for county authorities. Dunnivant appeared to have been drinking heavily, sheriff's deputies said.

He was charged with aggravated battery, but the charge was changed Saturday to murder after Knight, died, deputies reported.

Material Witnesses Listed as material witnesses in the case are Ida Wilhny, owner of a home near where the shooting occurred, Avant and a juvenile.

The woman, the juvenile and Knight had returned by taxi from a nearby tavern when the shooting occurred, officers said. An inquiry by the Madison County Coroner's office is pending.

A woman called Madison police at 10 a.m. Monday and reported that a pistol had been found in mud near where the shooting occurred. Chief Deputy Dennis Nicholas and Detective John Kulasza recovered the pistol and indicated that ballistics and other tests would be conducted to determine if the .22-caliber revolver was the murder weapon. The gun was lying in the tracks of a car in mud and water.

Just a couple of generations ago a courtship engagement ring was a relatively formal thing. The young man took for his intended's father her permission to court her daughter and then he engaged her father to ask for her hand. If father consented, the young man produced the diamond engagement ring and the wedding plans began.

The use of the diamond is symbolic of the belief that the diamond's sparkle comes from the "fires of love" deep in the heart of the diamond and the romantic symbolism of true love, like the diamond, lasts forever.

Change and Insecurity Inevitable; Relax, Accept It, Graduates Today

There are many things wrong with the world we inhabit, "but the one that has been building dangerously for the past few years is the work between the old and young."

G. W. Linden told more than 800 graduates at summer commencement exercises at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville yesterday.

In a talk which he titled "Accepting Uncertainty," the SIUE philosophy professor said there has always been a generation gap and there always will be one because "the young outlive us."

"Such a fact naturally generates resentment in the old and geriatrics in the young. Yet, the generational work is symptomatic of wider worlds and something dangerous has been building in it the last few years — hatred."

Linden said "the world's most frightening psychologist, Sigmund Freud, is well known as Buddha to some of his followers, had the answer to what is bothering the young people."

"Buddha told us that all we are are the result of our thoughts; all we are composed of is our thoughts. The world we inhabit is in large part a projection of our own minds which we cast upon the shifting screen of circumstance."

In this one saying, Linden maintains, Sigmund Freud is providing a method to overcome violence and excess.

There are four questions to ask of any problem. Linden said: What's the cause? What's the cure? What's the cure? What's the cure?

Hatred is what is wrong, Linden said—hatred born of fear and anxiety.

In explaining the cure, he addressed himself first to the older members of his audience. "Our mothers born to ourselves and fear," he told them.

"We were born and nourished on fear. We were afraid of starving, of the Japanese, the Nazis, the Chinese, the Russians. But there is one thing about fear. Fear is focused. You know what you fear?"

To the graduates, he said, "When you were born your parents had no question about self and anxiety. Why are you anxious when we were only fearful? Linden asked.

"The insecurity of this world is the truth it is," the SIUE philosopher said. "If we cannot trust the world, how can we trust our mistrust?"

"When things become rough," he advised the graduates, "and you are wandering around at four in the morning smoking sawdust cigarettes and wondering if any of it is worthwhile, maybe you can remember another saying from Sigmund Freud."

Seeing one of his disciples depressed, he said to him, "Remember, Ananda, he who feels puncture must previously have been a bubble."

"Change itself has uncertainty, the ego inflates and distorts the world it creates."

"We suffer from nostalgia for the future. We are all — young and old alike — driving furiously into tomorrow while watching the rearview mirror. The balloon of ego wants everything to be as it was."

The cause of fear and anxiety is ignorance, Linden said. "Ignorance of the differences between fear and anxiety and, above all, ignorance of the fact that both fear and anxiety have the same base."

Both are born from the acceleration of change and our swollen egos which, have made all lived worlds complex and uncertain.

"We must relax," Linden said, "and accept uncertainty. We must deflate, somewhat, our infantile egos and learn to trust uncertainty."

"Nothing can be transformed unless it is accepted. Since we cannot change change, we must change our attitudes toward it."

The only thing we can do with the insecurity of this world is to trust it," the SIUE philosopher said. "If we cannot trust the world, how can we trust our mistrust?"

"When things become rough," he advised the graduates, "and you are wandering around at four in the morning smoking sawdust cigarettes and wondering if any of it is worthwhile, maybe you can remember another saying from Sigmund Freud."

Seeing one of his disciples depressed, he said to him, "Remember, Ananda, he who feels puncture must previously have been a bubble."

Front Porch Once an Integral Part Of Life and Ideal Place to Dream

By HELEN M. PAGEE
Copley News Service

Few houses have front porches any more. Most have patios. But is isn't the same thing at all.

If you have a patio, you probably have a grill and a fire place and a picnic table and goodness knows what else. And whoever heard of relaxing in a patio? You have to be doing something.

Somewhere is grilling something or broiling something, while somebody else is toasting buns or making punch, and half a dozen people are madly scattering dishes around on the table and trying to decide whether the olives should be at this end or in the middle and—

Hey!—somebody get that extension cord from the garage because here come two of the men out the back door with the color TV.

And somebody is calling for Mary to mix the tossed salad because she can make such heavenly dressing, and four or five youngsters go scampering into the house for the mustard which nobody thought to bring out.

As soon as it begins to get dark the electric lights are turned on and all outdoors becomes as bright as day. There is laughter and good food and everyone has a wonderful time—there's no doubt about that.

But still, to one who lived 60 years ago, something is missing.

In the early 1900s a house was hardly considered complete unless it had a big front porch clear across the front of it.

The porch was as big or bigger than the living room, and was usually furnished with wicker furniture—rocking chairs with cushioned seats, sofas and little round tables.

Quite often there was a porch swing at one end, suspended from the ceiling by chains, and there might be an iron flower holder for ferns and other plants too delicate for the garden.

Years ago the front yard was the showplace of most homes.

The backyard usually contained the asparagus bed and the vegetable garden and the chicken yard and the woodpile, and who wanted to sit and look at them?

But the front yard, which was often as big as a city lot, had huge old trees and lilac bushes, and roses and sweet peas, and little flower beds with nasturtiums and pansies and portulaca and other old-fashioned flowers.

That's why the porch was on the front of the house.

Also, it gave you a chance to see everyone who went by and to speculate on what their errand might be.

On pleasant afternoons, mother and some of the neighbors would gather there and sit placidly rocking while they talked over the latest news.

And while they talked their hands were busy sewing—perhaps whipping lace on petticoats or making fine little tucks or ruffles on children's dresses.

But the best time of all was the evening.

After supper, when the dishes had been washed and put away, the whole family would gather on the front porch.

Father would be smoking his pipe, mother was probably rocking the baby, and the other children would be sitting on the steps or in the porch swing.

Usually there wasn't too much conversation.

All were content to just sit and enjoy their own thoughts while they watched the sun set.

People really did sit and watch sunsets then.

They knew how to enjoy the beauty of a flaming orange and yellow sky which gradually turned to a pale green and then faded into darkness with only the afterglow lingering on the western horizon.

And then the fireflies began their dance on the lawn, the stars came twinkling out, a sleepy bird twittered and the porch swing creaked softly as it swung gently back and forth.

Not a very exciting way to spend an evening, certainly. But it was a wonderful way to find peace and inspiration.

Expansion Work Begun At Kozyak Market

Expansion of the Kozyak Market at 2600 Nameoki Road was begun last week to increase the store area for a country-style produce department and to add warehouse facilities.

A wall is being removed between the store and a former laundry that no longer is in operation to provide 1,200 square feet of floor space for the new produce section.

The warehouse addition will provide 1,800 square feet to provide storage for a larger variety of products, William Kozyak, owner, said.

"This new construction was necessary to cope with expanded business and give the public more items and permit us to keep them in stock," Kozyak added. He said he expects the work to be completed in approximately six weeks.

Ed Moore Construction Co. is the general contractor.

Two Men Sentenced in Johnson Disappearance

Two local men have received prison terms in connection with the disappearance of Leroy Johnson, 31, of Edwardsville, Jan. 30, 1971.

Donald Lyons, 39, of Granite City, was sentenced to 8 to 10 years in prison for aggravated assault and Claude Griffith, 46, of Madison, received a 15 to 20-year sentence for attempted murder.

Both men originally were charged with murder. Johnson's body never has been found since he was in a fight at the home of his grandparents and two men were seen carrying a large object from the home wrapped in a blanket. It was the first murder trial without the recovery of a body held in Illinois since 1895.

The court also sentenced Alvin Oswald, 22, of Grafton, to concurrent 18 to 40-year and 1 to 5-year prison sentences for murder and burglary. He allegedly fatally injured a 90-year old woman in Alton.

MRS. WILLIAM F. GLOWACKI, the former Miss Barbara J. Fox, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Fox, 2906 Sunset Drive. She was married on Friday evening at Suburban Baptist Church.

Suburban Baptist Scene Of Glowacki-Fox Wedding

The wedding of Miss Barbara J. Fox and William F. Glowacki was solemnized at an evening ceremony Friday at Suburban Baptist Church, 2900 St. Clair Ave.

Miss Donna Cockrell, soloist, sang "The Wedding Song," "More," "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Lord's Prayer, accompanied at the organ by Jack Jenkins.

Altar bouquets of white summer flowers and lighted tapers in branched candelabra provided the setting for the double ring ceremony, performed at 7 o'clock by the Rev. Wendell Garrison.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Fox, 2906 Sunset Drive. Mr. Glowacki is a son of Mrs. Betty Radisic, 4006 Kirkpatrick Homes and the late William P. Glowacki.

Given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Fox chose a gown created of organza and Schiffl silk floral embroidery, fashioned with an Empire bodice and a semi-full skirt.

Venise lace masked with white satin ribbon trimmed the high neckline and formed an accent design from the shoulders, down the front of the bodice and skirt, terminating at the hemline. The long tapered sleeves were edged with scalloped Venise lace.

A wattleau panel, enhanced with an organza bow, cascaded into a full sweep train and she wore a profile headpiece of Venise lace etched with pearls to secure a tiered fingertip veil of bridal illusion. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white carnations festooned with long white satin ribbon.

Maid of honor, Miss Deborah J. Fox, a sister of the bride, selected a yellow organza over satin gown. The high neckline and jacket sleeves were enhanced with white Venise lace inserted with velvet ribbon to match the gown. A wide ruffle flounce formed the hemline of the floor length dress.

The bridesmaids, Miss Coleen Affolter and Miss Sandra Fox, a cousin of the bride, and Miss Janet Fox, the bride's sister, the junior maid, wore frocks designed in similar style to the honor attendant's dress in aqua organza. They held bouquets of carnations in shades to match their dresses.

Robin Radisic, a sister of the groom, flower girl, wore a frock made like the adult attendants' dresses. She carried a white wicker basket of yellow and aqua flowers. Serving as ringbearer was Scott Ward.

Larry Bell, a brother-in-law of the groom, was best man. Jerry Owens, Dave Troverson, Fred Fox Jr., the bride's cousin, Danny Coker and Larry Coker completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Picture of past occasions and members were viewed as the group discussed old-time local meetings. Mrs. Williams served a light lunch.

Preparation for the 1972-73 club year, several committee meetings were held during the past week. Mrs. Pauline Weir, BPW president, reported.

Miss Sandra Tadlock, Civic Participation chairman, presided at a program planning session at the home of Mrs. Catherine Michel. Key women were appointed to direct various programs during the coming months.

The appointees and their area of responsibility include Mrs. Emylee Allord-Johnny Appleseed; Mrs. Dolores Allen-Reynolds; Mrs. Ollie Wilson and Mrs. Nancy Dietrich-Consumer Awareness; Mrs. Hilda Lombard-Church Group; Mrs. Elvira Thurber and Mrs. Michel Records and School Promotion; Miss Tadlock-Credit Planning; and Mrs. Lily Chaboud-Status of Women.

At the latter session, a new program, was discussed involving competition between two teams in the area of investment. Under the program members will purchase stock shares for $5. It was explained.

Mrs. Robert S. Slate, Finance chairman, is directing the overall project.

Annellen Smith was named investment secretary and Mrs. Ruth Walk was appointed treasurer. Fourteen BPW members took part in the initial investment planning session.

Mrs. Slate has called a special meeting of the finance group at 7:30 p.m. today at her home. Mrs. Weir said.

Contrasting attire is worn in the two photographs. Appearing in both pictures is Miss Achumma Mathew, one of the newest employees of St. Elizabeth Hospital. Born in Nainical, India, she was a registered nurse in the surgical department of the Mahatma Gandhi Memorial Hospital in Bombay before coming to the U. S.

The scenes show her dressed in a saris, a garment of yards of lightweight cloth draped so that one end forms a skirt and the other a shoulder covering—and in her uniform while on duty at the local hospital.

Modern Pupils Study 'Old Woman in The Shoe' as an Environmental Topic

Copley News Service

Springfield — When Illinois kindergarten children are told to color a lemon, an orange or a bunch of cherries drawn inside a little box, they aren't really being given a modern education course in slot machines.

They'll be learning about safety, under a unique program developed by the state superintendent of public instruction staff.

"The program, which will be voluntary, is the first of its type in the nation, in that it offers a complete, coordinated six-year approach to teaching safety habits, from kindergarten through fifth grade.

The programs are geared to the comprehension abilities of each grade, becoming more complex as they go on.

Thus, the kindergarten lessons show Jack and Jill falling down that hill because they didn't look where they were going. The children color the simply drawn fruit outlines red, yellow or green, and then—what else?—color a stylized traffic light.

There are songs like "Stop, Look and Listen" and cut-out doll, "Chucky Clothes Conscious," whom the youngsters are to dress each day in clothing safety-coordinated with the weather.

Thus, if it is raining, "Chucky" will be clad in rainwear; which the children will have colored a bright, easily visible color.

With advancing grades, manners on school buses, ways to deal with traffic, and safety in handling a bicycle are added to the course.

The instruction advances from simple coloring tasks to putting on full plays dedicated to safety procedures in situations children can understand.

"Most programs available in safety education today are low in conceptual development and narrow in comprehension," according to State School Superintendent Michael J. Bakalis.

"An elementary safety education, only five other states have produced any materials at all to date, and those materials have been restricted to curriculum guidelines and state recommendations."

The Illinois curriculum provides lesson plans for each grade, including suggested teaching materials and learning activities, with an entire outline for the teacher to follow.

The safety program was tested in a pilot program at Niles, Ill.

The program is completely new in its practices of teaching safety as a conscious approach to living, rather than memorizing a list of "do's" and "don't's."

While it is presently not obligatory, Bakalis nonetheless says he considers the program a "prerequisite for high school driver education courses."

The continuing curriculum for the remaining elementary grades is still under development by Bakalis' safety education staff, and is expected to be ready for use during the 1973-74 school year.

Developed in conjunction with the Illinois Highway Safety program and the national highway traffic safety administration of the U. S. Department of Transportation, the program is also unique in its integration with other courses of study.

Individual lessons have suggestions for the teacher for ways in which the subject can be related, for instance, to art, social studies or language arts.

Things have come a long way in the classroom from the old standby Three R's.

But who would have ever expected that the old woman with all those children in the overcrowded shoe was actually a lesson in "environmental setting and human capabilities?"

Thornton-Ahlers Wedding At Sacred Heart Church

Miss Justine Marie Ahlers and Michael Paul Thornton exchanged wedding vows during a mass at Sacred Heart Catholic Church at 7 o'clock Friday evening.

The Rev. Daniel Flynn officiated at the double ring candlelight ceremony before an altar decorated with large white chrysanthemums, pink pompons and greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard E. Ahlers, 2801 E. 28th St. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Darwin P. Thornton, 2224 Iowa St.

Both mothers were cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held following the wedding ceremony at the VFW Hall, with Miss Cindy Martin in charge of the guest book. Mr. and Mrs. Thornton, parents of the groom, were hosts at a rehearsal dinner Thursday evening at Charlie's Restaurant.

Following a wedding trip, the young couple will reside at the Tower Lake Apartments in Edw. The former Miss Ahlers was graduated from Granite City High School and is attending SIUE, where she is a member of Kappa Delta Pi. She presently is engaged in student teaching.

Mr. Thornton, also a graduate of Granite City High School and a student at SIUE, currently is employed at the Tri-City Grocery Co.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding included the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. John Boyer and Miss Jeanine Adams of DeSoto, Mo.; Miss Linda Rau and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schmersahl, O'Fallon, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Forsy, Fairview Heights, Ill.; Mrs. Katherine Bryan, Don McCallister and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tippet, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Orville Thornton and son, Ronnie, Litchfield; Mr. and Mrs. Phil Halford, Alton; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sido, Edwardsville; Mr. and Mrs. S. McGlosson, Vandalia; Mrs. Thomas Schmersahl, Palestine, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. George Sido, Toledo, Ohio; and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kessler, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Martin, William Kessler and Tony Wargel of Evansville, Indiana.

Mrs. Margaret Crawshaw presided at the organ for the processional. Jon Grindstaff, Allen Orabood and Dan James, members of the New Life Singing Group, played a guitar mass which included the "Wedding Song" and the themes from "Romeo and Juliet" and "Love Story."

Glen and Scott Ahlers, brothers of the bride, were mass servers and Gregor Ahlers and David Thornton, brothers of the groom and his bride, lighted the cathedral candles illuminating the aisle.

The bride was escorted down the white carpeted aisle by her father, who gave her in marriage.

She wore an original gown of white chiffon designed with an Empire waistline and a long skirt. The bodice was fashioned of pleated sheer chiffon and the high neckline and wide cuffs of the full bishop sleeves were softly gathered. Bands of white lace embroidered with tiny rosebuds and pastel colored leaves, entwined with white satin ribbon, accented the waistline and sleeves.

A chapel length veil of white illusion, secured to a dainty petal lace capulet embellished with seed pearls, was handmade by the bride. She carried a lace-collared nosegay of white pompons, pink Sweetheart roses, baby breath and long white streamers.

The attendants were dressed in identical full length gowns of crepe duette, designed with scoop necklines, Empire waists and short sleeves. Sheer applied floral lace complemented the frocks made in soft pastel shades.

Miss Kathleen Carmody, maid of honor, wore a yellow gown. The bridesmaids, Miss Patricia Ahlers, sister of the bride, chose blue, Miss Rita Anne Ahlers, another sister, selected lilac and Miss Mary Ann Thornton, the groom's sister, appeared in pink.

Each carried a nosegay of dried flowers, encircled with a lace garland and velvet ribbon, in colors to match her dress.

Attending the groom as best man was his cousin, Robert Schmersahl. Groomsman were Michael Tapp, Donald Martin and Richard Ahlers, brother of the bride.

Richard Schmersahl and Thomas Schmersahl, cousins of the groom, seated the guests.

Mrs. Ahlers chose a medium green linen dress for her daughter's wedding, styled with a round neckline. Short sleeves were trimmed in matching colored daisy lace and she wore brown accessories.

The groom's mother selected a blue and gold print dress of double knit, fashioned with long sleeves. She wore navy accessories.

The wedding of Miss Starla Dawn Moore and James Gordon Dolan took place at 7 o'clock Saturday evening at the First United Presbyterian Church, 1810 McClintock Ave., Belleville.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. David B. Maxton.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Gloria Moore, Gaslight Walk Apartments and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon F. Dolan, 700 E. Chain of Rocks Road.

Miss Kerry Moore, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Robert Dolan, a brother of the groom, served as best man.

A reception was given in the home of the bride's mother following the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the newly married couple will reside in Granite City.

RETURNING BACKFIELD. Granite City Head Football Coach Wayne Williams at the right, with the football, discusses the task ahead with five Warrior backfield gridders who are all returning lettermen. Standing, from the left, are Dave Macios, 5-7, 150, senior defensive back; Gary Lively, 5-10, 168, senior fullback; Jon Stagner, 5-4, 155, senior halfback; Dale Williams, 6-0, 165; junior halfback; Clay Winfield, 5-8, 160, senior quarterback; and Coach Williams.

Warrior Offensive Line is A Mixture of New and Old

"One side of our offensive line will be strong, as we have four tough veterans back, and the other side will be inexperienced and young."

Stan Wojcik, offensive line coach of the Granite City High School football Warriors, notes that returning linemen include Brad Hiles, Barry Loman, Russ Miller and Brad Weiss, all seniors and lettermen.

"Our first game is some days ahead (Sept. 15) and a lot can happen between now and then. It is still too early to tell what our line will look like," Wojcik reports. The offensive and defensive starters probably will not be locked in tight by the GCHS coaching staff until after a scrimmage game Thursday at 8 p.m. on the local field.

In Thursday's practice game, the first-string offensive team will play the first string defensive team, with a number of substitutions planned.

The Warriors open on the road in ten days at 8 p.m. Sept. 15 against Riverview.

Gardens. The first home game for the varsity Warriors gridders will be against O'Fallon on Sept. 22 at 8 p.m.

The Warriors face a tough Southwestern Conference schedule this year. Belleville East and Cahokia are now members, and other teams in the conference are East St. Louis, Belleville West, Collinsville, Alton and Edwardsville.

The first conference game will be at Edwardsville on Sept. 29.

Trojan Gridders to Reveal 'Secret Weapon' at Opener

"We've got a secret weapon this year, but everyone will have to wait until we open the season to find out what it is," Gordon Soboby, Madison High School Trojan line coach, was speaking at the Trojan practice field.

It will win and hard work make for a winning team, Madison football fans could be in for a treat this year. Although many of the varsity gridders are sophomores and juniors, a spirit of dedication to victory seems to fill the air in the practice sessions, observers report. The Trojans will open on the road, in ten days.

On Friday Sept. 15, they will play Central on the St. Louis O'Fallon field beginning at 4 p.m.

The first home game for the MHS gridders will be Saturday, Sept. 23, at 2 p.m. The team is putting in a hard two hours of practice every school day, starting at 2:30, and also on Saturdays.

"Right now we're working on fundamentals and trying to give each player as much observation and advice as possible," Al Vonder Haar, head grid coach for MHS said Friday.

"We're young, and have a lot of raw talent and it's going to take a while for it to mold into a team."

"We don't 'cut' anyone in practice; they generally cut themselves when it becomes too tough."

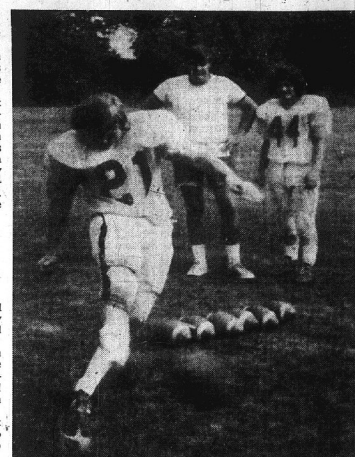

"We have a lot of good young sophomores and some juniors who watch TV football and have a vision of becoming a star."

"After they come out to practice and find out the crud reality that football is work-hard work, tiring work and bruising work—some go back to the TV set."

"Our backs are small, but fast and smart. If they keep their cool and hustle, they will do all right."

"The line is looking good. These fellows are hitting the practice sled and dummies with real vengeance."

"I hope they hit as hard in KICKING THE EXTRA POINT. Many a football game has been won by kicking the point after touchdown and many a grid team has avoided trouble with a well placed kick. Fonville (44), who will be a "monster man" for the Trojans.

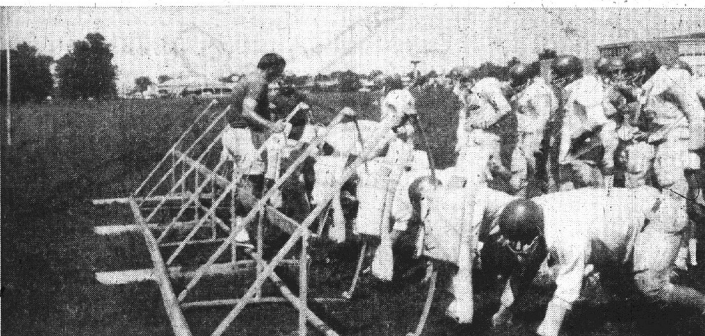

the game when they face something that hits back.

"Our school only has 275 boys in it and we have to give a lot of individual attention to bring out the best in every one. We don't do bad in attracting boys to play; we have 30% out."

"A big factor is spirit, and they seem to have it. I hope the students, faculty and fans turn out to support the team."

"When you have a crowd of people in the stands yelling and screaming for you to win, it sure helps," Vonder Haar concluded.

SLED WITHOUT SNOW. The seven-man sled is a basic tool for teaching football linemen to hit—and hit hard. Granite City football Warriors are pictured above in current sled drills. Tom Wyrostek, defensive line coach, is riding the sled and Stan Wojcik, offensive line coach, is in the background, visible near Wyrostek.

Warrior Harriers Will Open Season Wednesday

"Things are going slow and we have an opener looking us in the face here tomorrow," Dick Harmon, head Granite City High School cross-country coach, reports.

The local Harriers face Triad and O'Fallon at 4 p.m. Wednesday on the 2.8 mile GCHS course. Last year, the Warriors split with Triad and beat O'Fallon.

"We need four or five more runners to round out the team," Harmon continued. "Howie Bryant is in fine shape and Dewayne Terry shows great promise."

"What we lack is real depth. The boys are working hard and only time will tell what will happen. "Our big problem is a lack of experienced runners. A cross-country runner cannot develop in one year," Harmon noted. The Harriers were 8-1-0 in the 1970 season and 5-2-1 last year.

The Warriors will run again at the Columbia Invitational at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Spalding Again Wins Feature Event at Tri-City Speedway

Wib Spalding of Ponton Beach proved Friday night that he can drive a race car as well as the small quarter-mile oval as he can on the half-mile oval as he decisively won the Pepsi Cola 50 stock car race at the Tri-City Speedway.

He has won 13 of 17 late model stock car races and has tracked this year and seven of 15 super-sprint features.

Spalding started the feature on the outside of the front row beside Louie Janssen of Bethesda. In the first turn, Spalding moved into the lead and kept a clear track in front of him all the way.

The event was halted on the 40th lap when the car of Ken Lowe of Florissant, Mo., slid sideways in the third turn and the auto of Howard Ryder of East Alton was forced over the outside of the track surface.

Ryder's car was not damaged by the bumpy ride down the embankment and he rejoined the pack when the race resumed.

Wins by Half Lap
Bill Myers of Rosewood Heights finished second in the event, nearly half a lap behind Spalding but in a near photo finish with Janssen. Joe Northrop of Jacksonville was fourth and Don Carter of Hillsboro finished fifth.

James Lamelino of Jacksonville was the fastest late model qualifier with a lap of 17.20 seconds. C. C. Corbin of East Alton was second and Ryder was third.

Corbin's car became mixed with Spalding's auto in the first turn, nearly half a lap behind Spalding but in a near photo finish with Janssen. Joe Northrop of Jacksonville was fourth and Don Carter of Hillsboro finished fifth.

The mishap damaged the right front wheel and suspension of the car and mechanics worked throughout the evening's program to make repairs.

Corbin Drops Out
Corbin dropped out in the second lap with a flat tire on the damaged wheel.

Late model finishers, first through fourth, were: first heat — Carter, Northrop, Spalding; second heat — Bobby Stanton, Bob Cunningham, Lowe; third heat — Janssen, Ryder, Bob Buchanan; trophy dash — Myers, Corbin, Lamelino.

The evening's activities also included competition between a dozen hobo cars, most of which race regularly at Highland.

Kloos Wins in Hobo
Rick Kloos of Lebanon took home first-place money from the hobo car feature, defeating Dick Klaus and Bill Wortman of Granite City.

Other hobo car results were: Qualifying — Klaus, Kloos, Cletus Sunsel; first heat — Wortman, Sensel, Kloos; second heat — Ray Garrison, Paul McGinn, R. Batts.

Racing between late model stock cars and hobo cars on the quarter-mile will continue each Friday night at the Tri-City Speedway as long as weather permits. Time trials Friday will begin at 7:30 p.m. with racing at 8:30 p.m.

Track officials also announced that a special United States

Auto Club (USAC) championship midget car race has been scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 30. In dianapolis 500 drivers such as Arnie Knepper, Tom Bigelow, Lee Kunzman and Jimmy Cauberters are entered.

Rain Delays Women's Meet Here for Week

St. Mary's Downs Mercer On Jim Cromer's Home Run

St. Mary's of Madison defeated Mercer in an Inter-City Baseball League quarterfinal playoff game 5-3 Sunday in Wilson Park and claimed second place in the Blue Division, finishing a half game out of first. The Boosters had ended in last place last season.

Jim Cromer blasted a two-run home run in the top of the ninth, driving home the winning run. Cromer earlier had hit a single. Papa also was two-for-four, with a double and a single.

The Boosters scored their first three runs in the sixth. Ron Davis, Madison High School baseball coach, doubled to send Jay Greer and Larry Gerzits home. The winning pitcher, John Piechocinski, had scored earlier in the inning when Gerzits singled.

Mercer came from behind to tie the game 3-3 in the bottom of the seventh.

Bill Campbell started it off for Mercer with a walk. Jim Scott singled, Ed Hagmanner drove in Campbell on a single and Vic Reznack, the losing pitcher, hit a ground ball. A Booster infielder threw past first base and Scott and Hagmanner scored.

St. Mary's will now play Glen Carbon, the Blue Division's first place team, on Thursday at 3 p.m. in Edwardsville to determine the division's playoff winner.

The semifinal game had been slated for Labor Day but was postponed due to wet grounds.

The winner of Thursday's game will play Van's of East Alton in a best of two-out-of-three series for the Inter-City League playoff title. The first game of that series will be played on the diamond of the Blue Division winner Sunday at 2 p.m.

Van's pulled an upset Monday when it defeated the Red Division season champ, Troy, 4-2. The Troy pitcher walked six straight men after two were out in the sixth to give Van's three of its four runs.

Van's had eliminated Collinsville 5-0 on Sunday.

Hospital Cost Control Methods Are Outlined

Two programs just proposed by the American Hospital Association at its meeting in Chicago are designed to cut health care costs.

One AHA proposal is that a physician tell a nurse coordinator what tests and nursing care are needed before a patient enters a hospital. The other is that the nurse coordinator certify the approximate length of time a patient should be in the hospital and, upon discharge, arrange for follow-up care at home or in an outpatient clinic.

The AHA plans to explain the program by sending guidelines to more than 6,000 hospitals and health-care institutions. It will be up to individual hospitals to determine whether or not they wish to follow the program.

ing hard and appear to be developing a winning spirit. Gordon Schoby, not pictured, Trojan line coach, told the Press-Record, "We've got a secret weapon this year, but we aren't telling anybody until after we open on Sept. 15."

Unique Sights Greet Tourists in Orient

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Gladys) Pape and Mrs. Viola Edwards of Granite City have returned from a 23-day tour of the Orient, including stops in Japan, Formosa, Thailand, Hong Kong, The Philippines and Hawaii.

The initial stage of their travels was to Tokyo and other historical areas in Japan. Mrs. Pape noted that the Japanese people were extremely polite, friendly and well groomed in appearance.

The world-famous Toshogu Shrine at Nikko, with its vermilion painted Sacred Bridge and colorful Toshogu Yoniemon Gate were especially appealing to the eyes of the Westerners, who also visited farm homes in the countryside near Tokyo.

Principal crops produced in the area are rice and soybeans, Mrs. Pape said.

In the legendary Fuji-Hakone-Izu National Park, the visitors stayed in traditional Japanese dwellings, sleeping on mats and eating from low tables while seated upon cushions.

Ride 'Bulley' Train

An exciting experience was riding the "bulley" train to Kyoto, where the splendid Golden Pavilion of the Kinkaku Temple and Nijo Castle were visited.

A motor excursion to Nara, the first permanent capital city of Japan was climaxed with the inspection of the Todaiji Temple with its magnificent bronze image of Buddha and the Kasuga Shrine, featuring a large collection of stone lanterns and adjacent Deer Park.

Taiwan, formerly known as Formosa, was the second country visited on the tour. The island, shaped as a palm leaf, is dotted with camphor trees, Mrs. Pape noted. Highlights in the city of Taipei were tours of the Confucius Shrine, Lungshan Temple and the Chinese Palace Museum.

Mountainside Village

Sixty miles from Taipei, the group toured an aboriginal village located on a mountainside and reached by push carts, each holding two people. The carts were pushed along a mountain track by one young man, the tourists explained.

A mixture of "old China" and the modern world is found in Hong Kong — a shoppers' paradise where bargains abound in the International Free Port, Mrs. Pape said.

The "water people" still live on their junks and sampans, and the incense and joss sticks remain burning in lacquered temples for those faithful to Buddha.

In contrast, the city area has all modern conveniences and typhoon shelters can be found in many different spots around the vast port.

Unique Gardens

Among the interesting points visited was Tiger Balm Garden, a unique park marked by its grotesque figures and numerous towers and steps.

The garden was designed and constructed by a man who developed a healing salve called Tiger Balm which earned for him a fortune, Mrs. Pape explained. The manufacturer later donated the ornamental plot to Hong Kong in memory of his wife.

Two women provided the transportation to the Aberdeen Floating Restaurant in Hong Kong Harbor, rowing the tourists in a sampans. A brief glimpse of Communist China was seen through the "Bamboo Curtain" on a visit to the nearby countryside.

Additional water transport was required in Bangkok, Thailand, but this time more modern means were provided.

A motor launch took the tourists along a canal to the "Floating Market," described by Mrs. Pape and Mrs. Edwards as "an enchanting place." Many unbelievable sights kept the visitors' heads turning from side-to-side along the way, they said.

Timland is Thailand in miniature — a multi-acre playground where the pastoral industry of the country is displayed as it continues in its 4,000-year tradition.

Elephants pulling teak logs and loaded with tourists to ride, together with pottery making, were sights confronting the tourists.

Stern-Severine Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Severine, 919 Iowa St., Madison, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Janet E. Severine, and Michael J. Stern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Stern, 902 Fifth St., Madison.

The engaged couple are both 1971 graduates of Madison High School. Miss Severine is a sophomore at Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville, where she is majoring in accounting.

Her fiancé attended SIUE before enlisting in the U. S. Air Force. He presently is stationed at Keesler AFB, Biloxi, Miss.

Wedding plans are indefinite at the present time.

FIRE DAMAGES HOUSE

Fire officials are attempting to determine the cause of a blaze which damaged a vacant home at 740 Twenty-ninth place last night, Granite City firemen were called to the house at 11:55 p.m. They reported the front of the one-story structure was ablaze when they arrived with flames breaking through the front windows. They were on the scene one hour and 35 minutes. The home, owned by R. Schneebel, had been vacated by renters earlier yesterday. No damage estimate has been made.

AUTO DESTROYED

Fire destroyed the car of Charles Ellsworth, 4903 Kirkpatrick Homes, at 10:40 p.m. yesterday. Ellsworth said vandals in a sedan apparently damaged the car and set it afire. The radiator and alternator had been removed and placed in the trunk of the car, he said.

ing the tourists. The party also watched the manufacturing of silk in its most primitive style; threshing of rice, cockfighting and folk games and dances.

Wooden Plows Used

Riding through the rural areas, they saw farmers ploughing their rice paddies using wooden plows drawn by water buffaloes — the same method as their ancestors employed centuries ago.

Bangkok is famous for its fine semi-precious stones, antique jewelry, fine woven silks and brocade and bronze figurines, Mrs. Pape commented.

Manila in the Philippine Islands still was digging itself out of the mud deposited by flood waters when the tourists called at that bustling city. Many rural environs showed the results of the recent flood, Mrs. Pape said.

Beautiful handwork is very evident in the fine embroidered materials available in the islands, she noted. At the entrance to Manila Bay, the group visited historical Corregidor, making the 30-mile trip by hydrofoil craft.

Passing across the International Dateline gained the tourists a day in time, she noted. Upon arrival in Honolulu they toured the Punchbowl Crater and Pearl Harbor before returning to the United States mainland.

Despite the magnificent sights observed on their educational and most interesting journey, the Granrbowls declared — "We all should be thankful for the good old U.S.A."

MISS JANET SEVERINE, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Severine, 919 Iowa St., are announcing her engagement to Michael J. Stern.

Disability Pay Rule Explained

By FRANK CORRICK
Copy News Service

Q. I receive monthly Social Security retirement payments. My 57-year-old wife is completely disabled. Can she draw monthly cash payments on my record? — A. C.

A. She will not be eligible for benefits as your wife until she is 62 whether or not disabled. However, if she worked under Social Security herself she may be eligible for disability payments now based on her own earnings. She should call a Social Security office for more information.

Q. Are the hurricane Agnes and other disaster losses occurring before July 1, 1972, deductible on the 1972 return? — V.K.

A. The Treasury Department has announced that the July 15 deadline for claiming disaster losses has been extended. Those uncertain about whether to deduct losses on 1971 or 1972 returns may have until Sept. 15, 1972, to decide. Contact your local district director for further details.

Q. I was 65 on May 31, 1972. I planned to work through Dec. 31, 1972. Will I have to retire before the new 20 per cent increase in Social Security Benefits goes into effect in order to get the increase? — R.P.M.

A. No. The 20 per cent increase will be given to those who apply in the future as well as those who are already receiving benefits. The increase is payable for the month of September, 1972, and will be reflected in the checks received on Oct. 3, 1972.

Q. Will you please inform my husband and I the legal benefits of marital deduction under the federal estate tax? — Mrs. L.S.

A. Fortunately, married individuals who own separate property have the opportunity through marital deduction, to minimize the impact of the federal estate tax upon the estate of the first spouse to die.

Consequently, no property owner should make plans to use this deduction without the advice and guidance of an experienced attorney.

This not only protects against unexpected problems in the estate of the first spouse to die, but it also avoids unnecessary complications in the survivor's estate.

Age Proof Necessary
Q. I'll be retiring soon. When I apply for monthly Social Security payments, what information must I have? — R.A.

A. Since your age is important for entitlement to retirement checks, you must furnish evidence of your date of birth.

This could be your birth or baptismal certificate or other document recorded early in your life. Any Social Security office can help you in gathering information to support your claim.

Q. Where may I locate most of the sources of information on investments and business conditions? — J.A.

A. Many newspapers have a section called the financial and business section. Here the reader can find all sorts of information about business and investment conditions. For example, he frequently can find columns written by or quoting economic experts.

In most cases these experts study a vast number of facts gathered from many sources and then give their opinions of what the facts mean.

However, the experts don't always agree, and the reader must be careful to differentiate between the facts and the opinions.

Bruker Urging Environment as New Study Area

More students must be involved in environmental studies if an "environmental ethic" is to be created, according to a survey of environmental education programs in Illinois and Missouri high schools by a Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville faculty member.

The survey was conducted by Robert M. Bruker, director of admissions and records and an Education Division instructor. He studied environmental programs in 60 high schools in central and southern Illinois and in St. Louis-St. Louis County.

"Only 12% of the 84,923 students enrolled in the high schools of the sample were participating in environmental programs," he said. "More students must be involved if the schools are to realize a goal of creating an environmental ethic."

Bruker said the lowest degree of participation was in inner-city schools, with about 6% of students involved. Student participation in other categories—rural, suburban and urban schools—averaged about 14%.

"Among inner-city school personnel, there was a general climate of unconcern for environmental studies programs," he found. "This wasn't a denial of the existence of ecological problems, nor of their importance, rather it was a feeling that as contemporary social issues, they were being over-emphasized."

Bruker found that, in sample schools, environmental education experience often were vicarious ones gained through lectures, films and textbooks. However, 23 high schools included out-of-school projects in their programs.

"The schools were making poor use of off-campus study sites available to them," he said. "Each of the sample schools is within 30 minutes to one hour of natural sites which could be used in environmental education programs."

"These include ponds and reservoirs, woodlands, state parks, lakes, forests, rivers and streams. Ponds and reservoirs were used by 18 of the schools, with no other natural site used even to that extent."

Bruker said urban sites were used even less by high schools. He said sewage plants were visited by students from 19 schools, and industrial sites were used in eight programs, with dumps, water treatment plants and landfills used to lesser degrees.

"Illinois and Missouri through their education departments should publicize the location and encourage the use of off-campus sites for the study of environmental problems," he urged.

"Environmental curricula must be expanded to include the social problems associated with survival. This learning must occur in places outside the classroom, where students can use firsthand all their senses and talents for observing, questioning and evaluating."

In his investigation, Bruker found that despite the large amount of discussion in recent years of ecology issues as social problems, study of the issues was being conducted from a scientific point of view in the majority of high schools. About 70% of the high schools conducted their study of the environment in science and agriculture courses; in 19% of the schools, such study was conducted in social studies classes.

"The high school social studies area would be a particularly good field in which to emphasize the relationship of man to his environment," in his opinion. "Social and economic welfare, health, transportation and many forms of business are affected by our use of water, soil and air. Natural resources are essential to all wealth, industry and trade."

Bruker found that responsibility for environmental education often has been given to teachers whose major concerns lie elsewhere. He said 70% of the teachers in charge of environmental programs had primary assignments in other subject areas. About 56% indicated biology or geology as their specialty, with 16% listing social studies.

A dearth of college-level courses designed to assist prospective or in-service teachers in environmental education was found by Bruker. He added that not one of the 60 high school teachers included in his survey had taken a college-level course in ecology, with most being "unaware that such courses existed."

Bruker said community involvement should be encouraged by high schools. "There is no evidence to indicate community involvement has been sought," he said. "Students and teachers could make a valuable contribution to establishing an environmental awareness in the community by taking their programs outside the classroom."

His study was developed into his Ph.D. dissertation in education at SIU at Carbondale. At SIUE since 1962, he has taught in public schools in Alton, Belleville and LaGrange. He will be awarded his Ph.D. next month.

Possibility of More Rail Services Seen in Study

Copley News Service

Springfield—The Illinois Transportation Department has issued a study dealing with intercity rail passenger service which not only examined the existing rail-passenger services, but also looked into the possibility of additional rail service.

Transportation Department Secretary William F. Cellini says the study was initiated to establish a comprehensive basis upon which to develop the state's plan for fulfilling the future needs of intercity rail passenger service within the state.

The study was launched after the National Railroad Passenger Corp., commonly called AMTRAK, started eliminating some intercity passenger service within Illinois. Some of the rail services were dropped last year.

Cellini and B. G. Cunningham, his assistant, are hopeful that perhaps the General Assembly will be able to use the report as a basis in considering legislation that might be presented to re-establish intercity rail passenger service. At the present time there has been no definitive agreement as to whether or not such legislation will be presented next year.

The General Assembly also has a committee which is looking into rail transportation. The committee is looking into the possibility of high-speed rail passenger service. The federal government has mentioned Chicago as a possible test site for high-speed passenger service when it does come about.

The report also touched on bus and air transportation. In its report the department said there is increased public interest in the possibility of adding additional trains between Chicago-Champaign-Urbana and Chicago-Carbondale. There also is increased interest in possible passenger service between Chicago and the Galena-East Dubuque areas.

If arrangements can be reached between state and federal officials and proper funding can be arranged, there is a possibility that after the first of next year additional passenger trains may be added.

Medical Information on Driver Licenses Proposed

Edmund J. Kucharski, Republican candidate for Secretary of State, on Thursday proposed that driver licenses be revised to include vital medical information which could be important in saving the lives of accident victims.

The plan, as outlined by Kucharski, would list on the drivers license an individual's blood type, severe reactions to any medication, and state whether the person has a disease such as diabetes or heart trouble.

"Such information could be most helpful to medical personnel and others in case of an accident or sudden illness. For example, if in examining a victim's drivers license it stated he was allergic to penicillin, medical personnel would know the victim should not receive penicillin in the treatment," Kucharski said.

He pointed out that the data would be written in by the individual in spaces especially provided for such information on the drivers license application.

Important to Treatment

"Such information would be especially valuable when used in conjunction with Governor Ogilvie's Trauma Care System, which is already in existence throughout Illinois. The system shortens the time required to get critically injured persons to specialized medical care, and keep them alive until they obtain that care. This information will give more help to those responsible for saving lives," Kucharski stated.

The Republican candidate said the Illinois legislature has authorized the secretary of state's office to conduct a feasibility study regarding placement of photos on driver licenses, and this plan will be included in the study.

500 Out-of-Town Visitors At Newport Homecoming

Rain Saturday morning dampened the spirit of the parade which was to open the annual Newport Homecoming in West Madison and North Venice, but the weatherman provided a gathering for the more than 500 former residents who returned here for the festivities.

A large gathering attended the fairwell breakfast for homecomers yesterday morning at the Venice Recreation Center and heard a talk from Mrs. Levertia, Western of Los Angeles, Calif., former civil rights leader.

She praised the homecoming, saying it provided an opportunity for hundreds of friends and relatives to gather in a joyful mood when normally such reunions occur only in cases of death.

Among those attending were 10 former residents who now resided in other cities. Other cities with large delegations in attendance were Chicago, Decatur, Milwaukee and Racine, Wis., and the Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

The largest single group of homecomers was the Edwards family of Detroit who arrived with 50 family members in a bus.

Construction of stands and other facilities in Lee Park for the homecoming was done by trainees from the Venice area who donated their time for the event.

A seminar highlighting the Small Business Administration's surety bond program will be conducted in Belleville Sept. 10.

Robert A. Dwyer, Midwest regional director, has announced. Co-sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Illinois Association of Chambers of Commerce Executives, it will be held at Augustine's restaurant.

A 2:30 p.m. session will be geared toward members of the surety industry. One at 7:30 p.m. will be directed toward contractors and other interested persons. Dwyer said the SBA surety bond program is applicable to small businesses in the construction industry or repair, maintenance, service, supply or janitorial work.

The board authorized Mrs. Dorothy Simpson, village clerk, Aug. 10 to notify those who had been paid for licenses that they could be closed within two weeks after the Aug. 14 deadline.

She said six who remained in violation had been notified but that she also was waiting for board action before taking steps to force payment of the fees.

Businesses still owing the fees as of Friday, according to Mrs. Simpson, were a barber shop, a beauty shop, a service station, a cleaning shop, a laundry, a dry cleaning, a nursery. Each is required to pay an annual $25 license to operate, it is indicated.

A dispute on the issue developed when several business owners informed the village board that they would not pay the license fees unless all businesses were charged equally.

The board authorized a village police club to be used as a village squad car. The unit will replace the police car wrecked in an accident Aug. 11.

It was explained that the wrecked unit should not be repaired until possible legal proceedings against the village have been resolved.

The police committee is investigating circumstances surrounding the accident.

The board agreed to pay Morgan his full wage during his absence for up to 60 days. Durbin was assigned Morgan's wage of $2.50 per hour retroactive to Wednesday.

The trustees reversed their decision to purchase police radios from Vite Communications and to continue to rent units from Radi-Comm Communications in Troy, at $88.40 per unit, plus a $100 monthly fee.

Further study of the purchase agreement showed that purchasing the units would not be feasible at this time, John Cole, chairman of the police committee, said.

Mrs. Marlette's resignation became effective Aug. 17. Biggs was appointed to a spell meeting.

Serviceman Shot On Chicago Expressway

William E. Richter, a serviceman stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., who is believed to have had a Madison address, was found shot three times near his pickup truck on the edge of Edgewood Expressway in Highland Park at 3 a.m. Saturday.

He was reported in fair condition today at Illinois Masonic Hospital in Chicago.

District 25 of the Illinois State Police reported Richter was asleep in his truck when he was shot at the shoulder of the road behind the tractor-trailer of James M. Davis.

Davis told troopers he was awakened by a man who knocked on the window of his truck and then displayed a pistol.

He said he started the engine of the truck at which time the man fired three shots into the door of the cab. Davis was not injured.

Davis reportedly drove to a police station and reported the incident, informing officers that the man in the pickup might be in danger. Police cars were dispatched to the scene.

They found Richter lying unconscious on the edge of the road behind his truck with three gunshot wounds to his stomach and chest.

He was taken to Highland Park Community Hospital where he underwent surgery. A detective said he is investigating the incident. No arrests have been made.

Substantial College Aid by Health-Education Dept.

By EDWARD NEILAN
Copley News Service

Washington — Virtually every university in the United States has a key to the U. S. Treasury.

Financial problems of the nation's institutions of higher learning have grown so rapidly that there is no longer a question of whether the federal government should help.

The questions have become: What form should the aid take? How much should be paid?

The agency charged with passing out the money is the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Analysis of federal spending on education shows that in the fiscal year 1971, HEW handed out $2.5 billion of the total $3.8 billion spent by the U. S. government on educational aid at the college and university level.

There is every indication that the federal ante for higher education will increase in the 1970s.

The department, through its Office of Education, administers a number of programs to support higher education and thus keep costs to parents and students from rising further, said an HEW spokesman.

"Student aid programs are also offered to help persons of limited means," said the spokesman. Grants to support instruction in agriculture, mechanical arts, English, mathematics, science and economics are made through land-grant colleges and universities under legislation dating from 1872.

Other federal funds are provided for the construction and improvement of classrooms, laboratories and similar facilities.

Grants also are made for higher education planning and evaluation training. Special assistance is provided small colleges or developing institutions "to help them gain new strength."

Enrollment in institutions of higher education increased from 2.8 million in 1955 to 5.9 million in 1965 and 8.4 million in 1971.

By 1980, an HEW assessment states, college enrollment is expected to exceed 12 million. "As a result," HEW says, "the colleges and universities will be hard pressed to take care of everyone seeking education beyond high school."

New proposals are under study.

One calls for direct federal subsidy to any institution calling itself a college (except for schools or departments of divinity), based on the number of full-time students.

The formula would allow a college $100 from the federal government for each freshman and sophomore, $130 for juniors and seniors and $200 for graduate students.

In order to give special support to small and generally hard-hit private colleges, the proposal calls for paying an extra $200 per student for the first 200 students at an institution's enrollment.

HEW provides the example of a small-town girl named Sandra Peters who shows what avenues of federal assistance are presently open to a student desiring to go on to college.

Sandra, 19, wanted desperately to go to college and become a teacher. Her father, a mill worker making $5,900 a year, needed all of his resources to support Sandra's four brothers and sisters.

Sandra estimated that the cost of her first year at college would be $2,100. She had saved $300 and expected to earn another $1,000 from her summer job. That left her $1,800 short. Her family simply could not afford to contribute this amount.

There are four federal programs for which she could qualify, and she was accepted by the college of her choice:

1. Educational opportunity grants ranging from $200 to $1,000 are made to undergraduate students of "exceptional financial need."

2. The college work-study program, which provides employment to students from low-income families, allows the student to earn up to $300 a year.

3. The national defense student loan program permits loans up to $1,000 each academic year to a total of $5,000. The loans may eventually be canceled if the recipients go into certain teaching careers.

4. The guaranteed loan program allows the student to borrow up to $1,500 an academic year from regular financial institutions. A student from a family with adjusted income of $15,000 a year or less pays no interest while enrolled in an approved college.

More than $2 billion has been loaned to college and vocational students under the guaranteed loan program and more than $2 billion has been loaned to students under the National Defense Education Act.

Increase in Students Getting Free Lunches

Copley News Service

Springfield — Between 35,000 and 50,000 more school children in Illinois are expected to take part in the state's free lunch program during the present school year under liberalized eligibility standards now in effect.

Robert Ohlzen, director of school food services in the office of Superintendent Michael J. Bakalis, said that between 335,000 and 350,000 children are expected to receive free lunches this year, compared to slightly less than 300,000 last year.

Under the new standards, a family of four which last year was only eligible if family income was $3,540 or less, this year will qualify for the program if income is $4,680.

A family of five this year will qualify if income is $5,380 or less, compared to $4,350 or less last year.

The scale continues to move upward, to a family of 12 which will still qualify with an income of $9,610, compared to a maximum of $8,080 last year, Ohlzen said.

School districts receive 46 cents in cash from the federal government, 15 cents in cash from the state, and food commodities with a market value of seven to nine cents for each lunch. A meal served, plus six cents cash and the commodities for each paid lunch served.

Last year, Ohlzen said, more than 600,000 type A meals were served each school day in the state.

"A type A meal is one which nutritionists feel meets one-half to one-third of a child's minimum daily nutrition requirements. This means it must include two ounces of protein rich food, stuffs, six ounces of fruit, vegetables or a combination of these, a slice of bread or serving of rolls, a teaspoon of butter or enriched margarine and a half pint of whole milk."

"The school lunch program is one of the few federal programs which actually returns more money to the state than Illinois puts into it," Ohlzen said.

"We estimate that the Illinois economy benefits by about $150 million annually from the program—about $75 million spent for food purchases and $75 million for the program related payroll."

In addition to those who qualify for free lunches—or breakfasts in the schools with a breakfast program—because of low family income, Ohlzen said, all families on public aid are eligible.

Also, any family with school age children which is receiving any form of public assistance, including food stamps, is eligible to participate in the program.

State requirements compel schools to administer their free lunch programs in such a way that no one knows whether a child has paid for his lunch or is getting it free.

Actual implementation is left to the schools, which vary considerably in the way they handle their lunch programs.

Presently, it is estimated that percentages of eligible children in Illinois who actually participate fall into the upper 90s, Ohlzen said, with slightly less than 4,000 schools out of 5,900 eligible schools serving lunches.

About 200 also serve breakfasts.

City to Use Bank's Data Processing

Billing in five Granite City sewer accounts handled by data processing equipment of the First Granite City National Bank under an agreement between the city and the bank, it was announced today.

City Clerk Robert Stevens said a decision to use the bank system was reached after city council members inspected systems in several other communities, including Belleville and St. Clair County, where such service is available on a fee basis.

City Treasurer Paul Rutledge said the accounts for which billing will be "computer programmed include the Sewer Extension account, Particular Area No. 2 fund, the Special Sewer fund, the Reserve Area account and Particular Area No. 3 account.

Use of data processing equipment for the five accounts will considerably lessen demands for clerical work in the treasurer's office, Rutledge said.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size and income scale to assist them in determining eligibility:

Family of one, $2,420 annual income or $201 monthly income; two, $3,180 or $265; three, $3,940 or $328; four, $4,680 or $390; five, $5,380 or $448.

Family of six, $6,070 or $505; seven, $6,760 or $563; eight, $7,330 or $610; nine, $7,900 or $658.

Family of ten, $8,470 or $705; eleven, $9,040 or $753; twelve, $9,610 or $800; such additional family member $70 or $47.

Families falling within these scales or suffering from unusual circumstances or hardships, or receiving public assistance, are urged to apply for free meals for their children.

They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school.

Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. The form itself is simple to complete and requests information needed to determine economic need based on the income and number of persons in the family and any unusual circumstances or hardships which affect the family's ability to pay for school meals, school officials said.

Lyons Would Aid Home Owners, Purchasers

State Senator Thomas G. Lyons, (D-Chicago) Democratic candidate for attorney general, promised last week that, if elected, he would seek such legislation as might be necessary to eliminate "black-bustling" and other practices engaged in by any unscrupulous real estate operators and speculators who play their trade in changing neighborhoods.

Lyons would immediately seek such amendments to the Consumer Fraud Act, which is administered by the attorney general's office, to "eliminate any doubt that fraudulent schemes and practices in the selling of real estate would fall within the scope of the act."

"This is an area in which one slip, one mistake, can cost a family all of its savings. This is an area in which crooks and chislers operate to destroy homes and neighborhoods. These practices must be stopped," Lyons said.

He cited published reports of use of misleading figures on cost and income of properties.

Based on such figures, properties could be sold to unsuspecting buyers at prices considerably greater than their economic values, he said.

Lyons said some operators list older property as supposed to have "220 electricity" required by modern usage.

"The unaware buyer finds that the electricity is not distributed through the property and that he has to pay $1,000 or more per apartment to prevent a suit by local building officials after the property is inspected."

He noted that Lieutenant Governor Paul Simon has called for an inquiry as to whether Hanover Park cases involved violation of the law.

There are allegations that homes were sold to buyers with the promise that they bordered on a forest preserve when, in fact, such was not the case.

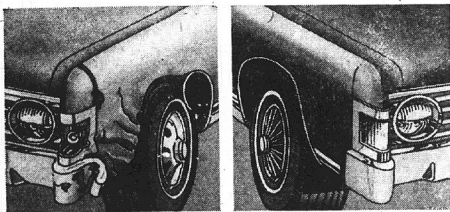

"Other residents complained of homes bordering on a sewage disposal plant and a large dump, sinking into the ground. There were complaints of some builders' failure to keep promises to repair home defects and take preventive steps from lawns washing away."

Broader coverage and lower cost when you need it... you've earned it.

Aetna's All-Drive Plan.

It's the most popular auto insurance we've ever handled—because it has something to offer just about every driver.

For example, even if your present insurance company is already giving you a lower rate for your safe driving record, the Aetna All-Drive Plan should be able to beat it.

Had a couple of fender-benders in the past few years? No problem. You could still save. The All-Drive premium may be less than other insurance companies would ask.

And if you've really had bad luck—maybe find it hard to get any insurance at all, you should still qualify for All-Drive. Get the broad coverage you need. Plus the best available guarantee on renewal.

Call us, or come in. You'll discover you're one of the drivers that will do better with All-Drive.

R. G. Smith Re-Enlists For 6 Years in Army
Specialist Four Robert G. Smith, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, 4805 Kirkpatrick Road, has re-enlisted for six years in the regular Army while serving with the 5th Artillery at Fort Riley, Kan.

Spec. Smith is a member of a service battery of the artillery's 1st Battalion. He entered the Army in October 1970, received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and was last stationed in Germany.

Mrs. Petty Active in Opportunity Program

Community concern and involvement are no strangers to Mrs. Jessie Petty, a general clerk for the Fort Riley Exchange at the Kansas Army base. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Rhodes, 1020 College St., Venice.

The general clerk says that initial experience has helped in her current undertaking—presenting the Fort Riley Equal Employment Opportunity program to the community.

Mrs. Petty says she "has seen the result of lack of communication and misunderstanding" and is working hard to show the community how the Army base is working toward its EEO goals.

Since her employment with the Exchange, Mrs. Petty has made personal contacts with almost every business organization in the community. She has served as speaker to such civic organizations as Jaycees, Hum an Relations Council, Kiwanis, NAACP and Chamber of Commerce and has earned extensive public recognition in Kansas.

Her efforts are credited with achieving a better relationship with the community and improvement of the work force, as indicated by the number of employees receiving career counseling and "upward mobility" training.

A review of the Exchange's EEO program by the Ohio Valley Exchange Region personnel technical representative called Mrs. Petty's efforts "outstanding."

Mrs. Petty has set her sights on another community 20 miles from Fort Riley. The town is bigger than the one in which she has been working, and she says it will soon be hearing all about the Exchange and its EEO program.

GC Crimes Drop In July, Auto Accidents Rise

Virtually all types of crimes declined in Granite City during July, as compared with those of the previous month, according to a report released by Chief of Police Ronald Veizer.

The only exceptions were robbery, with three reported each month, and criminal homicide where the record has been clear this far this year.

The number of cases of larceny have declined sharply from 163 in June to 121 in July and burglary reports declined from 76 to 31, it was noted.

Assaults Decline

Assaults decreased from 20 in seven and auto theft reports declined from 26 to 22 in the period. Thirteen stolen autos were recovered. No forcible rape cases were reported in July, a decrease from one in June.

The number of larceny cases reported in the area increased from 13 to 17 while assault arrests fell from 14 to zero and burglary cases decreased from 15 to 3. There were no arrests in other categories of crime other month, the report showed.

A total of 255 persons were charged with crimes in July as compared to 188 in June. Of those, 127 were for traffic offenses in July as compared to 99 were charged in traffic cases in June, the report said.

Arrests increased for the first seven months of the year to total 1,506, including 1,067 traffic arrests. Both categories are higher than in the same period of 1971 in which 1,400 persons were charged including 881 traffic violators.

There was one fatal auto accident in 19 persons hurt in 38 personal injury accidents, and there were 83 property damage accidents in July, all higher than the 43 persons hurt in 32 injury accidents and 70 property damage accidents in June. Accidents in June totaled 162. The number increased to 222 in July, according to the report.

Thus far in 1972, four persons have lost their lives and 349 persons have been injured in 410 accidents in Granite City, which higher than the three fatalities and 268 injuries during the same period of 1971.

The biggest number answered 1,772 complaints in July, according to the report.

Corn, Soybean Harvest Late This Year

By WARREN W. BUNDY
Madison County Extension Adviser

Corn and soybean harvest will start a little later than normal this year. Planting last year was delayed by wet weather.

When dry weather caused crops in most fields to start growing slowly.

Leaves of soybeans in some fields are turning yellow indicating approaching maturity.

In some years soybean harvest began in late August, but no fields have been observed this year that are ready to harvest now.

Some soybeans should be ready to harvest about the middle of September.

Weeds will be a harvest problem in many soybean fields. A desiccant won't make weeds disappear. But properly used it can kill weeds and broadleaf and grass weeds to make harvest easier and reduce dockage when you sell the beans.

Parquat is registered for use as a harvest aid for drying corn and soybeans. Apply the material when the soybeans are fully developed and after at least half the leaves have dropped and the remaining leaves turned yellow.

Could Be a Problem: If you apply parquat too early before the soybeans are fully mature, yields could be reduced.

Use one-half to one pint of the material in 20 to 40 gallons of spray per acre for ground application or in 2 or 3 gallons per acre for aerial application.

Add one quart of surfactant, such as 7-77, per 100 gallons of spray. If cocklebur is a problem, use the pint rate of parquat.

Observe all label precautions. The next two weeks is the normal seeding time for alfalfa. It is grown on more than 20,000 acres in Madison County.

Alfalfa is the highest yielding perennial forage crop grown here, and its nutritional qualities are unsurpassed. Alfalfa is an excellent hay crop and is used in pastures.

Many varieties of alfalfa are available. Bacterial wilt resistance is usually necessary if alfalfa is to persist beyond four years.

Ogilvie Hails Bill to Aid Rural Communities

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie on Thursday hailed the President's approval of the Rural Development Act.

The bill was approved in San Clemente, Calif. It sets a ceiling of $10 million for $1 billion a year for aid to rural communities. Ogilvie commented at SIUE.

"I have asked members of my special Cabinet on Rural Development to confer immediately with their counterparts in the United States Department of Agriculture, where control of the program is lodged.

"The provisions of this far-reaching legislation are so numerous and have such potential for our smaller Illinois towns and areas that intense work on our part will be required to get maximum aid for Illinois.

"The bill basically seeks to improve job opportunities, social conditions and government services in the areas that are losing their young people to the cities.

"Its aims are precisely those we have pursued in Illinois in an effort to make our small towns and rural areas far more attractive and viable places in which to live.

"Congress, by this act, sets only the ceiling levels on available funds. We will work hard to ensure that the required appropriation bills are passed without delay."

The act provides a ceiling level of $500 million a year in new grant programs for towns of less than 10,000 population, but permits business and industrial loans in towns of as much as 50,000 population.

Other new or expanded provisions include: Tripling the present $100 million a year program of community grants for water and waste disposal, and doubling the present $10 million limit on planning grants in these areas. A new pilot rural fire protection program, for $7 million a year.

Research Program

A three-year research project to be conducted by land-grant colleges on ways to improve rural standards of living. A $10 million level is established the first year, increasing by $5 million a year.

Loans to farmers to finance seasonal operations can be made for as much as $50,000, instead of the current limit of $35,000.

The act's major provisions are aimed at attracting new businesses and industries to rural areas through low-cost, guaranteed loan programs. Although administration is in Agriculture, the Department of Labor has 60 days to overrule proposed laws if the industries are being "pirated" from other areas.
